We are currently experiencing a delay in the supply of our series of retro styled knobs due to a problem in the manufacturing process in the USA. We are working hard to resolve the delay as quickly as possible. We will provide an update as soon as we have news from the manufacturer.

Our policy for international shipping is to ship the whole order in one consignment there will be a delay in fulfilling international orders that include any delayed stock items. We apologise for this delay and all customers awaiting supply will be notified independently.
