We have had a one or two of customers that have had problems when adding items to their shopping cart and viewing the shipping costs. We are currently looking into these issues and believe that the shipping selection is now working, but we have not yet resolved the adding items to cart issue. If you experience this problem please ensure that you use the full internet address of <http://www.keyparts.co.uk> and not the shorter version <http://keyparts.co.uk> .
